The diagram illustrates the interconnected nature of leadership, organizational culture, employee engagement, and performance. Leadership is shown as the central influence, with arrows pointing to each of the other three components. Organizational culture is further linked to employee engagement.

A screenshot of a software application titled "New Report View". The interface displays four report cards, each with a student's name and a score. The cards are arranged horizontally. Below the cards is a blue button labeled "Print". At the bottom of the screen, there is a navigation bar with several icons.

A screenshot of the Microsoft Graph API documentation page. The main content area shows a tree diagram representing the 'Get users' operation. The root node is 'GET /users'. It branches into 'HTTP request' and 'HTTP response'. The 'HTTP request' branch leads to a code snippet in C# and PowerShell. The 'HTTP response' branch leads to a JSON representation of a user object. To the right of the tree diagram, there is a sidebar with sections for 'API reference', 'Graph API version', 'Graph API version history', and 'Graph API version 1.0 reference'.
